1	ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

3	A belt is provided with an inflatable bladder which,
4	when inflated, is permitted to expand toward an interior of
5	the belt and prevented by a barrier from expanding toward
6	an exterior of the belt. A pressure gauge indicates the
7	pressure within the bladder, and the gauge is fixedly
8	displaced relative to the belt and the user such that the 9	gauge may be viewed by a user when the belt is worn without
10	significantly moving the cervical spine substantially out
11	of a neutral posture.
